INDEX

IN compiling this index we have preferred to err on the side of fullness rather than to risk leaving any omissions.

Reference is as a rule to pages, but excavated objects shown in the plates but not mentioned in the text are listed by reference to plates. An asterisk shows that the item is repeated on the page.

In the course of last year the official spelling of Arabic and Hebrew geographical names was changed; this affects Nos. 2-4, but not No. 1. In the index the spelling has been as a rule kept uniform according to the new transcription; so it follows that there are occasional divergencies between the text and the index; in the more serious cases cross-references have been made.

Attention is drawn to the special detailed index to the 'Bibliography of Excavations' on pp. 192 ff.
